SONNET, TO *.

Dear Lady now while night has thrown Its mantle o'er the farthest sea, And zephyr's whisper seems alone—Wilt thou not deign to sigh for me!

'Twill quickly wing its onward way—For love its vigil now shall be, Then dearest friend do not delay—
'Twill meet the sigh I send for thee.

Nov. 1822. HORATIO.

FOR THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

TO —.

Dear friend, at evening's pensive hour, Fond friendship's sighs have double power;
They give the mind a little heaven,
And soothe the heart for which they're given.

Nov. 1822. HORATIO.

THE YELLOW LEAF.

Round flew the bowl, the laugh rose high,
When summer's richest canopy, The budding boughs of emerald dye,
Was all our slide.

So soft the air, so gay the plain, Though August's moon was in her wane, We said that summer's joyous reign Would never cease.

High rose the laugh, the transport's swell, When sudden, potent as a spell, Detached by no rude zephyr, fell One yellow leaf!

The mirth was hush'd, the songster's lays Broke short, and back muscled gaze Hung on the leaf, nor dared to raise One timorous lay.

Each fear'd upon his neighbor's face His own sad thoughts portend'd to trace, As the pale emblem spoke the race Of summer's fate.

It seem'd some Fairy from the skies Had seen our idle transport rise, And, to unmask life's treacheries, The warning sent.

To tell us that the scene might glow, But soon should fade in cheerless snow,
To tell us that our life might know An autumn too—

That joys but coming sorrow speak As calm precede the tempest bleak, That death's most certain victim's cheek Blushes roses paint.

Yes, in that hour, and on that day, Reflection stole my smiles away,
And, like him weeping to survey His myriad lands.

Methought, ere many a year went round, Full many of us who on this ground Now gently tread, may far be found To meet again.

The young before the old may go,
And he who hears this measure now May fall perchance the first to show This moral true.

TIME.

I saw him hastening on his way,
And marked his lightning flight, Where'er he mov'd there stern decay Spread its destructive blight.

Rapid the gloomy phantom hied, Envelop'd in the storm—
His eyes shone out in sullen pride, And fearful was his form.

I saw him grasp the warrior's wreath, Worn in the gory fray;
The laurels withering, sunk in death,
Their beauty fled away.

That wreath was stained with bloody dew, Unhallowed was its bloom;
It met the phantom's chilling view,
And bowed beneath its gloom.

I saw him pass by beauty's bower,
And listen to her lay;
Around the spot was many a flower, Blooming in summer day.

With icy heart, the spectre came,
Her lovely form compress'd;
She met his lurid eye's wild flame, The tombstone tells the rest.

On youth's warm brow, his hand he prest;
'Twas cold as mouldering clay, He laid his hand on manhood's breast;
The life pulse ceas'd to play.

His fell sire o'er nature pass'd, And low she droop'd her head, Her blossoms withered in the blast,
And all her verdure fled.

THE WISH.

Well! smooth flow the billow that bears thee away;

May your bark o'er the ocean gladdenly glide, May the gale of prosperity fill your way,
And no joy that the voyager seeks be denied!

You are gone, and the breeze that now blows to your shore,

Could it bear on its wings the warm wish of a friend,

As it cheer'd thee in moments of sorrow before, Might delighted in exile its sympathy lend.

O could I but picture the wish of my heart, Its hues would be glowing resplendently bright, And allied but to nature, no tribute of art Could be made to embellish the picture of light!

I would say, you may roam thro' the waste of the world,
Tho' wounded in spirit yet glorious in name,
With the banners of glory before thee unfurl'd, And no limits but earth's farthest bounds for thy fame!

And oh, may the ocean that rolls thee afar, Bear thee back when thy sun of ambition has set,
To shine in thy bliss like a mild beaming star, Nor thy splendour gone by for a moment regret.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS.

FOR THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

Hope springs eternal in the human breast, Man never is, but always to be blest.—POPE.

In the morning of life, when the youthful passions burst as it were, the thrudom which had confined them, and the mind begins to assume those feelings, and treasure up those sentiments, which is the lot of riper years to confirm, then it becomes necessary for the coercive hand of experience, to use that just prerogative, which reason, and the observation of years always impart. If this authority were duly exercised, whilst the mind is yet flexible to the admonitions of age, how exempt would our country be from those many calamities, which ignorance, and idleness, the parents of turbulence and disorder always occasion. Then might we expect to see genius, aloof from those passions which corrode, and finally destroy the fairest endowments of nature. Then might we glory in having reached the goal of our republic, which is the dissemination of virtuous principles, and the happiness of every individual. As the acorn contains within its brittle fabric, the rudiments of the majestic oak, so man possessing a mind clothed with the vestures of virtue, contains within him that which promotes the happiness of a nation. And as the vegetable kingdom requires the heat of the majestic sun, to expand and display her beauties, so a vir-tuous man calls for the warmth of the congenial friend, to participate, and to disseminate happiness.

THE WORLD.

[FROM THE FRENCH OF MASSILON.]

What is the world, even to those who love it, who are intoxicated with its pleasures, and who cannot live without it? The world! it is a perpetual servitude, where no one lives for himself alone, and where if we strive to be happy, we must kiss its fetters and love its bondage. The world! it is a daily revolution of events, which create, in succession, in the mind of its partizans, the most violent passions, bitter hatreds, odious perplexities, devouring jealousies, and grievous chagrins. The world! it is a place of malediction, where pleasures themselves carry with them their troubles and afflictions. In the world there is nothing lasting; nor fortunes the most affluent—nor friendships the most sincere—nor characters the most exalted—nor favours the most enviable. Men pass all their lives in agitations, projects and schemes always ready to deceive, or trying to avoid deception; always eager and active to profit by the retirement, disgrace or death of their competitors; always occupied with their fears or their hopes; always discontented with the present, and anxious about the future; never tranquil, doing every thing for repose and removing further from it. Vanity, ambition, vengeance, luxury, avarice—these are the virtues which the world knows and esteems.— In the world, integrity passes for simplicity, duplicity and dissimulation are meritorious. Interest the most vile, arms brother against brother—and breaks all the ties of blood and friendship; and it is this base motive which produces our hatreds and attachments! The wants and misfortunes of a neighbour find only indifference and insensibility, when we can neglect him without loss, or cannot be recompensed for our assistance. If we could look into two different parts of the world—if we could enter into the secret detail of anxieties, and inquietudes—if we could pierce the outward appearance which offers to our eyes only joy, pleasure, pomp and magnificence; how different should we find it from what it appears! We should see it destitute of happiness—the father at variance with his child—the husband with his wife; and the antipathies, the jealousies, the murmurs, and the eternal dissension of families. We should see friendships broken by suspicions, by interests, by caprices; unions the most endearing dissolved by inconstancy; relations the most tender destroyed by hatred and peridy; fortunes the most affluent producing more vexation than happiness; places the most honourable not giving satisfaction, but creating desires for higher advancement; each one complaining of his lot, and the most elevated not the most happy.

THE EARTHQUAKE.

The appearance of the heavens foretold a terrible tempest, the clouds lour'd gloomily and heavily over the whole horizon, the vapour ascending from the surface of the earth and the ocean deepened, while the vulture and the cormorant screaming discordantly, flapped their wings amid its density. The horror-struck inhabitants of the cottages fled to the mountains, while without a perceivable cause, their houses rocked as in a whirlwind—The darkness of midnight rested on the world, and every heart quivered with terror and despair—Suddenly a stream of lightning played across the horizon disclosing the terrible stillness which en-wrapt the whole—it beamed for a moment, the courier which announced the earthquake, and then vanished.

In a moment the houses were dashed in pieces, the mountains waved the thousand forests which crowned their summits and were precipitated into the valleys below—The scream of thousands crushed in the desolation rent the air. The wild beast of the forest, the insatiate ravager of the air, and the terrified victim of humanity crouched together, while the blast and the deluge swept the plain—The earth gaped from its inmost recesses and engulph'd the mountain, the forest, the river and every living thing—the aperture closed and in a moment the labouring earth threw again from its womb the mountain and the forest—The screams of the wounded and the dying had now ceased, for every thing human had been swept from existence by the power of the earthquake.

The heavily laden heavens shook off the mantle of clouds which had enveloped them, and the bright-eyed sun looked on the wreck of the world—The hill now rested on the bed of the river, and where the voice of singing, and the buoyant step of youth had been heard, the stillness of death rested for evermore.

LEVEE OF THE GRACES.

Notwith-standing the secretaries had regularly notified the members of the meetings to be held on the evenings of every Wednesday, the number attending was never sufficient to form a quorum. The splendour of the entertainments brought forward by the Circus managers, supported by the talent and beauty of the female performers, had proved so powerfully attractive, as to draw our members there in very considerable numbers, and the merits and demerits of the persons composing the corps, were alone the topics of conversation, and superseded, for the time, the affairs of the Levee. And indeed, our worthy chairman, than whom no one has the interest of the society more entirely at heart, may be found every evening of performance in the right hand stage box, his eye brows elevated, his snuff box open, his hat knowingly awry, with every other mark of a profound critic.

On Wednesday evening last, the secretaries as usual notified the members of the stated meeting, but finding no attenders but themselves, adjourned to the circus, and upon entering the said box, not only discovered our president, but also Mrs.
Modish, Miss Trollop, our Vices, with some half dozen other members. The correctness of Mrs. T's representation was canvassed with critical strictness, and her classical adaptation of dress was voted to be in harmony with the character. After the entertainments were over, the members in the stage box forming a quorum, repaired to the hall, where the meeting being properly organized, Miss Trollop rose "to anathematize the rude and insulting behaviour of the gentlemen composing the society; who not only when in meeting assembled, but also in the ball room, the theatre and the public promenade, under the paltry pretences of near-sightedness, stared out of countenance every lady whom ill fortune threw in their way"—she also "reprobated the finical nicety with which they criticised the dresses, bonnets and other appendages of the Ladies which she thought unbecoming gentlemen, and below the dignity of men." [Miss Trollop is generally chairwoman at the meetings of the "bas blues," and is not at all remarkable for her judgment in the selection nor her taste in the wearing of her apparel.]

Benjamin Brainless, Esq. recriminated, stating "he had intended at a future meeting to have filed an indictment for the same offence, against the Ladies, and was really astonished at Miss Trollop's accusation, as he believed nothing short of a perfect curiosity would elicit such behaviour from the men—But when a "rara avis" caught our view, every person of research examined it to establish its genera." Here Mr. Brainless was called to order by the chairman; he then concluded by saying, "in his opinion, were the aggregate of politeness in the two sexes ascertained, the balance would preponderate heavily in favour of the men."—The levee clock now tolling twelve, the meeting adjourned.

A STORY OF LAKE ERIE.

An Indian woman, and her child who was about five years old, were travelling along the beach to a camp a few miles distant. The boy observed some wild grapes growing upon the top of the bank and expressed such a desire to obtain them, that his mother, seeing a ravine at a little distance, by which she thought she could gain the edge of the precipice, resolved to gratify him. Having desired him to remain where he was, she ascended the steep and was allured much farther into the woods than she at first intended. In the meantime the wind began to blow vehemently, but the boy wandered carelessly along the beach, seeking for shells till the rapid rise of the water rendered it impossible for him to return to the spot where he had been left by his mother. He immediately began to cry aloud, and she being on her return, heard him, but instead of descending the ravine, hastened to the edge of the precipice, from the bottom of which the noise seemed to proceed. On looking down she beheld her son struggling with the waves and vainly endeavoring to climb up the bank, which was fifty feet perpendicular height, and very slippery. There being no possibility of rendering him assistance, she was on the point of throwing herself down the steep, when she saw him catch hold of a tree that had fallen into the lake, and mount one of its most projecting branches. He sat astride upon this, almost beyond the reach of the surges, while she continued watching him in an agony of grief, hesitating whether she should endeavour to find her way to camp, and procure assistance, or remain near her boy. However, evening was about to close, and as she could not proceed through the woods in the dark, she resolved at least to wait until the moon rose. She sat on the top of the precipice a whole hour, and, during that time, occasionally ascertained that her son was alive, by hearing his cries amidst the roaring of the waves; but when the moon appeared he was not to be seen.
—She now felt convinced that he was drowned, and giving way to utter despair, threw herself on the turf. Presently she heard a feeble voice cry, (in Indian) "Mama, I'm here, come and help me." She started up, and saw her boy scrambling up the edge of the bank, she sprang forward to catch his hand, but the ground by which he held, giving way, he was precipitated into the lake, and perished among the rushing billows!

Singular effects of Beauty on a Young Man.—Bishop Dupuy invited one day to dinner, two Clergymen and two ladies; he remarked that during the whole of the repast, the youngest of the two clergymen had his eyes steadily fixed on one of the ladies, who was very handsome. The Bishop, after dinner, when the ladies had retired, asked him what he thought of the beauty he had been looking at.—The clergyman answered "My lord, in looking at the lady, I was reflecting that her beautiful forehead will one day be covered with wrinkles; that the coral of her lips will pass to her eyes, the vivacity of which will be extinguished; that the ivory of her teeth will change to ebony; that the roses and lilies of her complexion, the withered appearance of care will succeed; that her fine soft skin will become a dry parchment; that her agreeable smiles will be converted into grimaces; and at length she will become the antidote of Love."—"I never should have supposed," said the Bishop, "that the sight of a fine woman would have inspired a young man with such profound meditations."

Dialogue between a gentleman and a litigious Attorney.

Gentleman.—You, Mr. Attorney, are a liar, a scoundrel, a blackguard, a rascal, a vagabond, a worthless cur—In short, you are every thing that is not actionable.

Attorney.—Damn the fellow—he has non-sued me by anticipation.—Charleston Courier.

THE PEDLAR, No. 14.

During the disturbances in Ireland, in the year 1798, Mr. Beresford commanded a corps of volunteers entirely composed of revenue officers, of whose discipline he was very proud. Boasting one day of the excellence of his regiment, a wag observed, he did not doubt it, as they were to a man, all CAVALIERS [Sellers].

An Ode to Sleep.—A poet asking a gentleman what he thought of his last production, "An Ode to Sleep," the latter replied, "You have done such justice to the subject that it is impossible to read it without feeling its whole weight."

A new Bank.—The establishment of a new Country Bank, was announced by posting-bills to the following effect, "a new bank will be opened in a few days." Some persons were at the pains of altering the word "in" to "for." The projectors took the hint, and the bank was not opened.

Query.—Why is Orpheus like a Schoolmaster? Ans. Because he "strikes the trembling lyre."

Cross Readings.—A new bank was lately opened at—N. B. No money to be returned.

The Speaker's public dinners will commence next week—admittance three shillings while the animals are feeding.

In the present scarcity of labourers to get in the harvest—J. L. corn-cutter and tooth-drawer offers his services.
Notwithstanding the assertions of the opposite prints, the majorities in the house of commons, prove, beyond a doubt that —all orders are executed for ready money only.

MAXIMS AND RULES

For the Conduct of Women.—By the late Countess de Boufflers.

1. In the exterior, decency and cleanliness.
2. In demeanor, reason and simplicity.
3. In actions, justice and generosity.
4. In language, truth and perspicuity.
5. In adversity, fortitude and pride.
6. In prosperity, moderation and modesty.
7. In company, affability and ease.
8. In domestic life, rectitude and kindness without familiarity.
9. Fulfill duties according to their order and importance.
10. Never allow yourself any thing but what a third enlightened and impartial person would allow you.
11. Avoid giving advice.
12. When you have a duty to fulfil, consider dangers only as inconveniences, and not as obstacles.
13. Sacrifice every thing to peace of mind.
14. Combat adversity, as a disease, with temperance.
15. Be anxious only to do what is right, paying as much respect as possible to the world and to the rules of decorum; but having observed this rule, be indifferent to public opinion.
16. Never indulge in any but innocent raillery, which is not injurious to principles, nor painful to persons.
17. Despise interest, and employ it nobly.
18. Deserve respect.

Favorites of George IV.—The longest personal favorite of the new King has ever kept is Du Pacquet, his dresser and chief valet. He is a Frenchman of the old school, and enjoys the unbounded confidence of his royal master. He is his caterer of small news, and of the chit-chat out of doors, and within the purlieus of the palace. At the same time it is just to add, that he has never been charged with abus-ing a station, which in courts has often been the means of promoting dangerous intrigues.

The next domestic favourite is Wilmet, the chief cook, also a Frenchman, but familiarly called Jack Hammond (why, I know not); but, in a luxurious court, a chief cook is a man who must be as often consulted as a minister of state.

Another royal favourite, and perhaps more harmless, is Nap the poodle dog, who was taken with Napoleon's carriage, and was for many years the intelligent travelling companion of that great man. Nap now travels with his old master's more fortunate rival, to whom he is not less faithful, and whom he amuses by his numerous tricks and uncommon sagacity. It might have been hoped that the liberal treatment of the dog would have been extended to his illustrious master, who by well authenticated accounts, is not only chained to a rock, but like Prometheus, is constantly tortured by a vulture.

DEAN SWIFT.—George Faulkner, the Dublin printer, once called on Dean Swift on his return from London, dressed in a rich coat of silk brocade and gold lace, and seeming not a little proud of the adorning of his person, the Dean determined to humiliate him. When he entered the room, and saluted the Dean with all the respectful familiarity of an old acquaintance, the Dean affected not to know him; in vain did he declare himself as George Faulkner, the Dublin printer; the Dean declared him an impostor and at last abruptly bade him begone. Faulkner, perceiving the error he had committed, instantly retired home, and resuming his usual dress, again went to the Dean, when he was very cordially received. "Ah, George," said he,
"I am so glad to see you, for here has been an impudent coxcomb, bedizened in silks and gold lace, who wanted to pass himself off for you; but I soon sent the fellow about his business; for I knew you to be always a plain dressed and an honest man, just as you now appear before me."

The Evening Post.

PHILADELPHIA.

Saturday, November 16, 1892.

A white man was found dead in an out-house in Locust street, near Ninth, on Wednesday last. He had on a blue coat, blue waistcoat, and blue trousers—was about five feet ten inches high, with blue eyes and grey hair—he was marked with small-pock, and had on shoes but no stockings—his right leg was very sore.

Haydn's Grand Oratorio of the Creation of the World, as performed by the Musical Fund Society in this city, in June last, having been received by the public with distinguished applause, and a general wish expressed for its repetition, the Directors of the music, in order to gratify that wish, have determined on a second performance of it, on Wednesday evening next, in the Grand Salon of the Washington Hall—to commence at seven o'clock precisely.

MRS. MONIER'S BENEFIT.
Is announced to take place at the Circus, on Tuesday evening next. Of the merits of the splendid spectacle, which she has selected, it is unnecessary to speak—as it has already been before the public, and received the most distinguished approbation—we are assured that it will be repeated on the present occasion, and no doubt will afford general satisfaction to all who may favour the claims of our meritorious and deserving townsman, whose appearance on the boards has been prevented for some time, by severe indisposition. The Equestrian performances will be unusually select—and Mr. Hunter may be expected to add to their effect, by the display of his surprising feats.

Deaf and Dumb.—A public examination of the pupils belonging to the Institution in this City, for teaching the Deaf and Dumb, under the charge of Mr. David G. Seitz, took place on Monday last; and we are much gratified in learning that the progress made by these children of misfortune was considered by all present as astonishing, and reflecting the greatest credit on the zeal, talents, and industry of their indefatigable teacher, to whom, more than to any other individual it consists within our knowledge, the public are indebted for the establishment of this, as well as the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, of which Mr. Lewis Weld is Principal.

Spain.—The Franklin Gazette of Wednesday, contains an extract of a letter from a highly respectable gentleman, dated Madrid, Sept. 8, which states that the affairs of Spain "are extremely critical." A civil war rages in Catalonia, Orayzo and Navarre. Money is scarce. A formidable French army is on the frontiers, and the Congress of sovereigns just assembling no doubt to deliberate on the affairs of the Peninsula. With all these threatening appearances, I have full confidence that the constitutional system established here, will be retained. We shall soon see and know the worst."

A letter from the surgeon on board the Ontario, cruising in the Mediterranean, states, that in consequence of an insult offered to the Vice Consul at Algiers, the nephew of Mr. Shaler, and acting in his absence, he had ordered the American flag staff to be cut down, and left the place for Port Mahon to join the American squadron.

Duelling.—The Editor of the Connecticut Journal is authorized by a few gentlemen in New Haven, who have associated themselves to discountenance duelling, to offer a premium of fifty dollars for the best Farce which shall be produced within one year from the 7th instant, founded upon certain facts which have recently occurred and are of universal notoriety. The money to be paid whenever the Farce is accepted by a committee of three disinterested persons appointed by the Association. The Editor of the Journal, therefore, holds himself responsible for the above sum, to be paid in compliance with the above terms.

The Mariana Flora.—In the Circuit Court of the United States in Boston, on Monday, the Hon. Judge Story delivered the opinion of the Court in the case of the United States and Robert F. Stockton, Commander of the United States schooner Albatross, Libellants, vs. the Portuguese ship Mariana Flora. An appeal (says the Boston Daily Advertiser) had been entered by the Libellant, from that part of the decree of the District Court which awarded damages against the captors. That part of the decree which ordered restitution of the vessel and cargo, was not appealed from. An agreement had been made at the present term of this court by Messrs. Webster and Blake for the captors, and by Messrs. Prescott and Knapp, for the claimants. The Hon. Judge was of opinion, that the conduct of the Mariana Flora was such as to render the capture lawful, and that although under the circumstances disclosed on examination after the capture, Captain Stockton might have released her at sea, yet he was not bound so to do, but had a right to send her in for adjudication. He therefore reversed the decree of the District Judge, awarding damages, and ordered that each party should sustain his own costs. An appeal from this decision of the Circuit Court was claimed and granted to the Supreme Court of the U. States.

Sea-fight.—The Bahama Advertiser of the 12th ult. contains an interesting account of an action between a sloop with 1 gun and 24 men, sent from H. B. M. ship Tyne, at N. Providence, and two pirates, one of which was beaten off and the other captured, with the destruction of her crew, the capt and 9 men killed, 2 severely wounded, 2 prisoners, and the remainder jumped overboard. The English sloop had 2 men killed, and her commander, Lieut. Nonne, and 6 men badly wounded by the piratical desperadoes. Another sloop, fitted out at the same time, with 16 men, surrendered to a vastly superior force, in another quarter, without resistance, and were detained and beaten and abused for several days.

Domestic Compendium.

The last advices from Norfolk represent the death of the Peacock's crew, to be considerably improved.

Mr. George Watson, a distinguished artist of Edinburgh, has presented a portrait of the late Benjamin West, to the Charleston Academy of Fine Arts.

A team-boat ferry has been established across the Potomac, at Alexandria.

Fatal Accident.—On Saturday afternoon, in New-York, Mr. Hugh Littell, a respectable mason, fell from a three story building on which he was at work, and was instantly killed.

Hydrophobia.—A dog was killed last week in Baltimore, supposed to be mad, having bitten four children, and excited serious alarm in the neighborhood.

Three of the four culprits, who escaped last summer from Hartford Jail, have been retaken. The fourth, called Luther Smith, is said to be an arch rogue, and bids fair to become a second Newman in prison breaking. He is described to be a tall, straight, well looking man, of about 28 years, remarkably athletic, and nimble-footed; a great reader, when in custody, of religious books, and generally succeeds in exciting the sympathy of all who approach him. In almost every species of crime he is an adept, but is supposed to be most familiar with passing counterfeit money, horse-stealing and store-breaking.

Winter in Canada, has commenced its reign in apparent earnest, with a snow storm at Montreal on the 28th ult. and ice at Quebec thick enough for skating.

There was good sleighing at Montreal, on the 30th ult.

We regret to learn the death of Major McGlasson, lately appointed United States' factor in the Arkansas Territory, in the place of Matthew Lyon, deceased.

Fire.—The valuable paper mill of Mr. Lytle, at West Farms, 13 miles from New-York, was consumed by fire on Wednesday night. Damage estimated at $15,000.

A boat laden with flour and potash, was lately sunk off Grand Island, N. Y. and the crew, consisting of four persons, all perished.

At the Schenectady N. Y. fair, held on the 10th ult. a horned Durham calf was exhibited, for which the owners refused 250 dollars.

Marble of an excellent quality has recently been excavated from the lands of Mr. Jacob Stelman, in Lancaster county.

Several persons concerned in the recent fraud on the Bank of the Northern Liberties, have been bound over, in very large sums, to appear at the Court of Oyer and Terminer, when the matter will be strictly investigated.

The emigrant journeymen tailors, from Philadelphia, who stood out for more wages, have opened an establishment at Petersburg, Virginia, and advertise that they are constantly supplied with the best cloths from New-York and Philadelphia.

The United States' Frigate Congress, Captain Biddle, sailed from Hampton Roads on the 7th. The Congress is bound on a cruise for the protection of our commerce, against the pirates in the West India Seas.

The Missionaries.—The Mission Family, consisting of about 20 persons, among whom are three ministers of the gospel, and some of the Owyhyan youth, are to sail from Boston in the ship Thames, on or about the 19th inst. Instructions have been given for the members of the family to repair to that city without delay.

During Outrage.—On the 2d inst. a villain entered the house of Mr. B. Cotton, of Savannah, by the scuttle communicating with the garret, and placed himself in the chamber of two young ladies, daughters of Mr. C. Their surprise and alarm may be judged of, when on entering the room, preparatory to retiring to rest, they perceived the feet and part of the legs of a man beneath the door of a clothes press, in which he had hastily taken shelter. The young ladies immediately shrieked for assistance, and attempted to fly, when the villain rushed from his hiding place, and by blows several times repeated, knocked them both down upon the landing place of the stairs, which, with the wall, was sprinkled with blood. He then made his escape. His object it is supposed was to rob the house.

The Charleston Patriot says, "Pensacola is almost completely deserted, on account of the dreadful mortality by the yellow fever. A letter says, that out of a population of 1400 souls, but 400 remain—the rest having either died or fled from the place. But one American family was there. All the authorities had died or deserted. They had no Governor nor Council, no police, nor post-office."

Among the deaths at New Orleans, from the 7th to the 14th ult. the following are recorded:—Mr. D. Campbell, of N. Jersey; Miss Bennet, E. Horton, Rebecca Brub, and Mrs. McManus, of Philadelphia; John S. Bradley, of Pennsylvania; and Caroline Bennet of Delaware. From the 7th to the 15th, one hundred and ninety-nine deaths occurred.

M. Guy Duplantier, of Louisiana, has invented a machine for making bricks, which it is said will do as much work as thirty men.

The same gentleman has invented a machine for piercing fence posts, by the aid of which, it is asserted, a man and a horse can pierce 1500 posts in the time which it takes to pierce 60 or 80 according to the ancient method.

Female Intemperity.—The Salem (Mass.) paper, in giving an account of a fire at Hamilton, notices the following instance of intemperity in a female. The fire was discovered about four o'clock in the morning. The house was already enveloped in flames. Part of it was occupied by Mrs. Margaret Lummas, a widow, with 5 children, the eldest on a sick bed. Mrs. L. with great fortitude, after having conveyed her sick daughter to a building near by, and extricated her other children from the flames, returned, and at the risk of her life, directed by the cries of a child, proceeded into one of the chambers and brought out a child of a captain Dodge, from the midst of the flames. The whole of the two families, consisting of captain Dodge, his wife, and 2 children, Mrs. Lummas and 5 children, escaped unhurt and destitute. The building was consumed with all its contents, except a few articles of furniture belonging to captain Dodge.

Three prisoners, Thomas Ladd, convicted of passing counterfeit money, and sentenced to be imprisoned for life, and George W. Gordon and Josiah Gregory convicted of larceny, escaped from the gaol in Bangor, on Tuesday night last.—Bost. Daily Adv.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION.—A large mass of Virginia Coal in the United States Navy Yard at Brooklyn, for the use of the blacksmith's shops, took fire on Saturday afternoon, and excited much alarm for the safety of the timber sheds near it, and the new frigate on the stocks. It became necessary to cut away some of the scaffolds, and with the aid of the engine companies of Brooklyn, the fire was soon extinguished, and the coal removed to another place. The coal was small, and remarkably sulphureous.—N. Y. Ev. Post.

A motion has been brought forward in the Legislature of the State of New-Jersey, to establish Tread-Mills in the different prisons of that state.

The act for the appraisal of estates taken in execution, expired on the 1st instant, by limitation.

It has been very recently reported here for some days past of a very heavy and unexpected failure of the first house in Fredericksburg, Va. to the amount of 200,000 dollars. It is said the failure has created the utmost consternation at that place.

EXTRAORDINARY.—A smooth oval stone, weighing about two ounces, was taken out of the heart of an ox, slaughtered in Bradford, (Mass.) last week. It had the appearance of a common brook pebble, and was probably taken in by the animal while drinking.

BEAT THIS WHO CAN!—Mr. Nathan Fletcher, of Bradford, (Mass.) made on Saturday last, working about twenty-four hours, twelve cider barrels.

NEW-YORK.—About five thousand persons have for some time been variously employed on the eastern section of Erie Canal. A raft of logs had been transported 24 miles on this canal for 5 dollars, which, if they had been carried on land, would have cost 1000.

Manufactures and Agricultural varieties.—Among the articles which obtained premiums at the late Agricultural Fair, in Alleghany county, (Penn.) were Japanned Walters and Traps, made at Pittsburg; Castor Oil, from fifteen acres of beans, raised in that county; and Cigars, from tobacco also raised in that county.

The Bread Fruit Tree has been introduced into Cuba within a few years past, and found to thrive well in that island. Some of the nuts or seed has been brought to Charleston, where it is thought, on the sea-coast of South Carolina, the tree would find a congenial soil and climate.

NEW FARRIES.—At the late Cattle Show and Fair in Hartford, Conn. there was exhibited a Hat made of mole skins, in imitation of Chinchilla, and two Cassimere Shackets, the work of a young lady. She received an extra premium.

A new novel has just been published in this city by Messrs. Carey and Lea, entitled "Logan; a family History."

A public meeting took place in the township of Tewksbury, Hunterdon county, New-Jersey, on the 2d instant, when resolutions were passed, urging the legislature of that state, to reduce the interest on money loaned to 5 per cent. The present rate of interest there is 7 per cent.

MANHOOD DEER.—A Deer was killed in Woodford, (Vt.) on the 7th inst. by Captain Stephen Pratt, which weighed 269lbs. when shorn.

The present season has been unusually prolific of monstrous vegetables. Among a variety of these enumerated in different papers, we notice as among the most remarkable 6 onions, weighing 6 lbs. 10 oz. which were raised by Gen. O. Preston, of Roxbury, N. Y. and by him presented to Gen. Root, the Lieutenant Governor elect, of that state.

AGRICULTURALIST BEAT THIS!—An inhabitant of Bennington, (Vt.) has raised a crop this season, on six rods of ground, for which he received one hundred thirty-four dollars and sixty-eight cents, cash!

From the National Intelligencer.

The famous racers.—The sporting community may be curious to know the pedigree of the two racers which are to run the great match on the 20th instant, and on which large sums of money are risked.—These two horses, though coming from different quarters of the country, we understand, are cousins, being both grandsons of the celebrated English horse Diomed, imported and owned by Colonel Miles Selden, of Virginia. Diomed was the sire of Duroc and of Sir Archy, both, in their day, first racers in Virginia. Duroc was carried to the North, and became the sire of Eclipse—Sir Archy remained in the South, and was the sire of Sir Charles.

The Champions of the Turf, Sir Charles and Eclipse, have reached the city, and taken up their quarters near the neighbouring course.

JEMIMA WILKINSON.—This formerly eccentric and celebrated preacher, has paid that debt, against which a Court of Insolvency can have no jurisdiction.

It was fondly anticipated that the memoirs of this lady's life, would ere this, have been given to the public, as many interesting facts are connected with her ministrations and deportment—a development of circumstances attributed to her powerful influence in society, would have a tendency to check religious superstitions bigotry. In Philadelphia she was well known, for successful operations, and on that account, a history of her tour through mortality would prove acceptable to THOUSANDS.

COMMUNICATION.
Messrs. Editors.—As any increase in the number of rational amusements cannot fail to gratify the enlightened population of which our city is composed, I beg leave to add my testimony, to that of many others, who were so amply satisfied with the performances at the 'City Theatre,' on Thursday evening last. The tragedy of George Barnwell, (which has long sustained so much reputation on both sides of the Atlantic) was permeated throughout with a degree of propriety which would not have been taken from the merit of any Theatre. There are few admirers of the drama, who have not literally 'held their sides,' at the representation of high life below stairs—and to use a vulgar but emphatic expression, the audience, on Thursday evening, were 'ready to burst' with laughter, so admirably did each one play his part. It would be invidious to make distinctions—the Level of Mr. Allen was above praise—Mr. Mestayer was quite at home; and I do not arrested by the attractions of Miss French, in Lady Charlotte, I should make a general commendation of the whole corps. In short, the deorum which has reigned throughout this 'renovated establishment,' since the management of Mr. Allen, encourages a hope that there will be a numerous attendance at the performances this evening.—G. I. F.

DRAMATIC SUMMARY.
Mr. Strickland, the architect of the New Theatre, on Thursday delivered the keys of the building to the trustees, having completed his contract twenty days before the stipulated period expired.

Mr. Caldwell, Manager of the Theatres of Petersburg and New Orleans, and his company of Comedians, arrived at Norfolk on the 30th ult. in the Steam Boat Richmond. They commenced their operations on the evening of the 4th inst.

Mr. Mathews performed Falstaff in the first part of Henry IV. last evening, in N. York, being the last night but two of his engagement.

Mr. Watkinson, from the Drury Lane Theatre, has appeared in New-York, in Sir Abel Handy, and Brummagen, and was handsomely received. His line, says the Advocate, is that of a comic old man, one of no inconsiderable difficulty, and his face and figure admirably adapted for such characters. Mr. Foot played Sir Philip Blandford, and is much applauded.

Mr. and Mrs. Duff are in Baltimore, but we have not understood that they had made any engagement.

Boston, Nov. 12.—Mr. Cooper took his benefit last evening, and repeated the character of Damon. The Box Tickets were all taken soon after the Office opened, and many could not procure places. In consequence of the disappointment experienced by many gentlemen, not being able to procure places for Damon and Pythias last evening, the managers have prevailed on Mr. Cooper to extend his engagement for three nights more, viz: Wednesday, Thursday and Friday next.

A Concert of Sacred Music, will be given at the Washington Hall early in December, by the Haydn Society, assisted by a number of Ladies and Gentlemen of the first musical talents—for the benefit of the Philadelphia Sunday and Adult School Union.

DEATHS.—There were 66 deaths in this city last week—12 of which were occasioned by consumption of the lungs. Twenty-seven were under five years of age.

The New-York City Inspector reports the death of 55 persons during the last week—of these there was but one death by yellow fever.

There were 32 interments last week, in Baltimore—of which number five died of the bilious fever.

PAUL OLIO.

Beaumont and Fletcher.—Dryden tells us, that Beaumont and Fletcher's plays, in his time, were the most pleasant and frequent entertainments, two of them being acted through the year, for one of Shakspeare's or Johnson's; and the reason he assigns is, because there is a certain gaiety in their comedies, and a pathos in their more serious plays which suit generally with all men's humour. The case, however, is now reversed, for Beaumont and Fletcher's are not acted above once for fifty times that the plays of Shakspeare are represented.

MARKS BULL.—The committee for improving a road in the Isle of Man, after due deliberation, had the following notice stuck up:—Whereas the bridge of Kirk Braddon being pulling down because it is built, all persons going that way to Peel must take the other road.

A poor.—A gentleman who was blessed with a mouth of unusual dimensions, was once asked by a friend, if he had a lease of that mouth of his. "No," good humouredly rejoined the other, "I have it only from year to year."

An English schoolmaster who has written a grammar, says that a repeating watch is of the feminine gender.

The Retort Courteous.—A member of one of the learned professions was driving his dog along the road at Totham, in Surrey, England, when he overtook a pedlar with his pack and inquired what he had to sell. The man produced among other things a pair of cotton braces; they were sixpence, he said. The gentleman paid the money, and then said, "You have, I suppose, a license."—"Yes," was the reply, hesitatingly. "I should like to see it." After some further delay, it was produced. "My good fellow, all's right, I see. Now, as I do not want these things, you may have them again for three pence." The bargain was struck, but how surprised was the querist to find a summons to attend the County Magistracy sitting at Croydon. The gentleman was convicted in the full penalty, for selling goods on the King's highway without a hawker's license. He is a lawyer.

It was told Jekyl, that one of his friends, a brewer, had been drowned in his own vat.—"Ah!" he exclaimed, "floating on his watery bier."

COURTEOUS ASSENT.—An Englishman and a Welshman disputing in whose country was the best living, the Welshman insisted there was such noble cooking in Wales that he had known more than a dozen cooks employed at one wedding dinner. "Aye," replied the Englishman, "that's likely enough, because every one toasted his own cheese."

OLDRIDGE'S BALM OF COLUMBIA. J. OLDRIDGE begs leave to inform the inhabitants of the United States and elsewhere, that he has discovered, by the power of chemistry, the grand desideratum of preventing the hair from falling off, in the short space of FORTY-EIGHT HOURS after the first application. This Balm will also restore hair on bald places, and speedily cure the dandruff. He now considers it altogether useless to continue to give signatures, its utility being universally known in Philadelphia and hundreds are at this time receiving their hair again. J. O. begs leave to return thanks to the generous Americans, for the liberal encouragement bestowed upon his copulatory restorative since its first discovery, and hopes to merit a continuation of their favours. Prepared and sold at one dollar per bottle, and half bottle 50 cents, at No. 335 South Front street, and at No. 11 North Fourth street, Philadelphia, by JOHN OLDRIDGE. July 9-4f

Something like Shakspeare. SCENE—Pavement in front of Gibbs's Fortune Lottery Office, No. 43, south Third Street, with a full and distinct view of Lottery Schemes, Capital Prizes, invitations to purchase tickets, &c. A number of persons (all in want of money) engaged in reading them—some come forward and addresses the others as follows: To buy or not to buy—that is the question—Whether 'tis better, to the mind, to suffer The stings and arrows of outrageous fortune, Or buy a ticket at Gibbs's Lucky Office! And thus adventuring and them—to risk—to gain: No more—and, by a gain, to say we end The heart's ache; and the thousand manifold shocks That want is heir to—is a consummation Desir'd to be wish'd—to risk—to gain: To gain—perchance $7309—Ay, there's the hope, For in that gain of Cash what joys may come, When we have counted off this handsome prize, Must make us blest! Why do we pause? Let come what may—we can but loose the price—The price the ticket cost us. Let's in at once and buy. For who would bear the duns of each day's date, The magistrate's writ, the sheriff's shoulder tap, The dread of prison bounds—the laws' delay, The insolence of bailiffs, and the pangs The poor debtor of the unfeeling takes,— When he himself might his question make, With a price ticket.

What! no answer to this question, then 'tis plain, 'Tis evident, all wish to avoid the pain, So, in at once—Gentlemen please clear the way, Gibbs give us a ticket each—here, here's the play, And if we don't draw prizes—why it's no matter—We'll try in next class, and perhaps do better—Thank you, (says Gibbs) it's a noble resolution, And loose or gain you help the institution. There's Tickets gentlemen, and may fortune tend them. If your friends have not bought yet—thank ye to send 'em, Good day gentlemen—broom men: this augurs well, No danger now, but what your Tickets sell. No 2-4f AUTHORITIES. ALL Authorities prove that the teeth can be saved—but never unless mankind are informed. In this city it has been said that public information from the pen of the Dentist is unfashionable—alas the poor teeth. All history proves that man will hesitate, but that woman was never known to refuse her generous aid when the public welfare was in danger. Ye fair be cautious, keep this great truth in view, Public information is a friend to you. Williams performs every operation which will save the teeth without giving pain, extracting a tooth only excepted. The teeth are destroyed by pressure—What man can give another cause? England gives none—and it said that our most eminent dentists approve the English writers on the teeth. The teeth require to be kept clean. For one dollar Williams performs every operation requisite; and fixes teeth in the mouth on moderate terms. Office, No. 161 Pine street, near 3d, oct. 19-4f B. WILLIAMS, Dentist.

P. ANCORA. HAS to congratulate his numerous friends on proving to a demonstration the complete success of his peculiar mode of instruction in the various branches of public education, Drawing, Painting, &c. He will produce from his pupils instances of improvement from three months' instruction that will challenge competition with any other taught by the usual method in twelve months; and when the extreme laxness of his terms is taken into consideration, he confidently anticipates a further extension of public patronage. He begs to state he is now forming his winter classes for Ladies and Gentlemen, and requests an early application, as, after the classes are filled, he will be unable to extend his instructions. Academy, 145 Pine st. above Fifth. sept. 21-4f
